Call for Submissions

Critical Inquiry in Language Studies

Special Issue: Disrupting and Recreating Beliefs in Language Studies

Manuscript Submissions Accepted Beginning June 23rd, 2019
Deadline for Manuscript Submission is November 30th, 2019

The International Society for Language Studies’ (ISLS) peer-reviewed journal, Critical Inquiry in Language Studies (published by Routledge), publishes empirical research and occasional theoretical/conceptual pieces related to language studies and its relationship to language, power, discourses, and social practices.

The editors of this special issue seek submissions that represent state-of-the-field, multi-disciplinary, and theory-driven reports of new empirical and critical research on the intersection of language studies and peace. Manuscripts will go through an initial vetting process of the special issue editors. Those selected will be sent out for double-blind review through the journal’s usual review system.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR SUBMISSION OF MANUSCRIPT

A submission must consist of the following information:

1. A separate cover page with title and author(s), institutional affiliation, e-mail, phone, and address.
2. An abstract of the chapter of no more than 200 words and 3-5 key words.
3. A complete manuscript, in English, consisting of no more than 6,000 words (or 25 pages typed, double spaced, in Times New Roman font, 12 pt), including references.
4. The manuscript must follow all formatting guidelines of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (APA 6th edition), including headings, referencing, and in-text citations.
5. The main manuscript file must be blinded. This means all self-citations should be replaced with the word “Author”, both in the in-text citations and in the references list.
6. All tables and figures must be formatted in accordance with APA 6th edition style guidelines.
7. Any image used in the manuscript must be your own original or you must have sought permission from the copyright holder prior to submission.

Failure to follow these guidelines will result in an instant rejection of the manuscript.

Manuscripts must be submitted through our online submission portal here: http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/hcil/ with an indication that is part of the special issue entitled “Disrupting and Recreating Beliefs in Language Studies.” Manuscripts submitted any other way will be rejected. Questions can be directed to the editor-in-chief, Paul Iida, at cils@isls.co.
